Hey, coach friends.

In March of 2020, over 300 coaches certified with me in my cohort at the Life Coach School.

Since then, the world has only grown more complicated.

This world and the people in it need coaches and coaching more than ever.

They need your help to process emotion.

They need your help to acknowledge the worst case scenario...and then realize they can handle it.

They need your help to see that they don't actually control what goes on around them, they only think they do.

They need your help to have compassion with themselves.

This is what I'm pondering on right now.

I feel more driven in my work of helping coaches with their websites now more than ever. Let's get coaching OUT into the WORLD!

Here are the three ways I can help you improve your digital business strategy and get your coaching out into the world:

1. Click over to my blog and read the latest web design & marketing tips.
   I've written a lot of useful stuff. If you're into using the internet to grow your business, you should definitely have a solid peruse of the posts. Check out the latest article here.

2. Are you an established coach who's ready to uplevel the look and feel of your online presence?
   My custom done-for-you web design services are a great fit. Work directly with me to build a new website or improve your current one.

   Here's what one client said about working with me:

   "We had a membership website we wanted to improve. Jennie's team was able to help make this huge task so simple - a perfect combination of taking initiative and making sure we like the work they're doing. I'm so confident in the service our new site lets us provide that I know I will be more effective selling it." - Jody Moore

   You can get started by sending me your project details here.

3. Is your next 30-60 day goal to set up a simple online presence you can be proud of?
   Then my course, Website Kit for Coaches, is the roadmap you've been looking for. Learn more about the course here

Hope that helps,
Jennie

Sent to: jennie@jennielakenan.com

Unsubscribe

Jennie Lakenan Web Consulting, 2528 W Pennway St, Kansas City, MO 64108, United States